Articles

- Emotionalising Indian Voters
Success has valid reason on its side while failure requires emotions as its justification. - Page 7
- Politics of Election Manifestos
Not only the actionable promises, but also the ideological content of the manifestos deserve scrutiny. - Page 8
- Insidious Infringement of Forest Rights
The draft Indian Forest Act, 2019 is a travesty of basic constitutional rights and principles. - Page 9
- Bad Debt Resolution Hits Judicial Roadblock
With the Supreme Court having declared ultra vires the Reserve Bank of India circular directing banks to pursue bad debt resolution at any cost, the process of making banks alone pay for all-round errors has come to an end. – BY C P Chandrasekhar - Page 10
- Challenges in Water Governance

India's water sector challenges include absence of any initiative to restructure water institutions, a distressed groundwater lifeline, push for large dams, increasing footprint of the urban water sector, etc. Yet, these have not been taken up as electoral issues. – BY Himanshu Thakkar – Page 12

➤ Facilitation and Whistle-blower Protection by Indian Firms

An analysis of the policies related to whistle-blowing among the BSE 30 companies in India indicates an urgent need to develop and enforce corporate policies to protect the whistle-blowers. – BY M V Shivaani, Thiagu Ranganathan – Page 15

➤ Investigating the Hunger Index : Evidence from Karnataka

The Karnataka District Hunger Index formulated using a modified version of Global Hunger Index methodology shows that backward pockets in the state have a higher hunger index, which also holds for socially and economically backward populations. – BY S V Hanagodimath, V B Annigeri – Page 18

➤ Constitutional Rights and Judicial Review

While the contribution of the Supreme Court towards asserting the inviolability of constitutional rights is undeniable, the rightful limits of judicial intervention in the executive and legislative domains need to be questioned. – BY Ashwani Kumar – Page 28

➤ Prevalence of Undernourishment in Indian States

Modifications are suggested on the estimation methodology of the prevalence of undernourishment. It is revealed that about 472 million people in India or 39% of the population, were undernourished in 2011-12 – BY Vikas Rawal, Vaishali Bansal & Prachi Bansal – Page 35

➤ Medical Devices Manufacturing Industry

The market size of medical devices and equipment has been estimated for the period 2010-11 to 2013-14 period, which was found to have accelerated from $2.7 billion to $4 billion, while imports served 70% of the total domestic needs in 2013-14. – BY Pritam Datta, Sakthivel Selvaraj – Page 46

➤ Institutional Exclusion of the Hill Tribes in Manipur

After India's independence, the hill tribes in the North East were protected under the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution, but the Manipur hill tribes were left out. This is a process of institutional exclusion, which has led to the demand for greater autonomy. – BY L Lam Khan Piang – Page 54

➤ Diaspora Philanthropy and Development in Rural Punjab

An analysis of the level of diaspora philanthropy and its role in the socio-economic development of 24 villages in rural Punjab reveals that philanthropic donations and their impacts were not equally distributed among them. – BY Nirvair Singh, Kulwinder Singh – Page 62

Electoral reforms should look beyond “anonymity of donors” to make a real difference. -
Page 10
- Manufacturing the ‘Ideal’ Worker
Gendered notions of productivity limit women from self-identifying as equal and worthy workers. - Page 8
- Declining Female Labour Force Participation Demand as well as supply-side factors constrain the labour force participation of rural women. - Page 9
- One and a Half Cheers for Transparency
The Supreme Court’s judgments in the Rafale Papers and the Electoral Bonds cases suggest that while it is alive to the need for upholding transparency, this is not its consistent position. – BY Alok Prasanna Kumar – Page 10
- ‘Development’ and the Mahagathbandhan in UP
How the dynamics between various stakeholders are playing out in the campaigning and polls in Uttar Pradesh-the focus of political speculation and observation-is examined –
BY Manjur Ali - Page 12
- General Elections in Assam
In the 2019 election, the outcome in Assam, which is witnessing realignments and alleged adjustments amongst the key political players, will decide which way the region swings. – BY Parvin Sultana – Page 14
- Unburdening the Child
The deletion of three chapters from the history textbook of Class 9, carried out in the name of reducing the burden on children, reflects a myopic view of the problem of academic load and its relationship with textbooks. – BY Disha Nawani – Page 17
- From Margin Money to State Disaster Response Funds
The mode of computing the quantum of allocation to State Disaster Response Funds, leading to some states receiving less than their deserved allocations, needs to be revised in the wake of the constitution of the Fifteenth Finance Commission. – BY Lenin Babu

Articles

- Provincialisation of ‘Transformative’ Politics
The left and the Dalit political parties put limits on the transformative politics that draws its support and sustenance from the normative ideals available in Karl Marx and B R Ambedkar. These limits spring from the conditions of provincialisation of transformative politics into instrumentalities that are internal to electoral democracy. – BY Samar Kavi - Page 10
- The Realities of Voting in India
The nature of work and consequent socio-economic realities deprive migrant workers within India of their voting rights, while lack of official documentation of internal migration, especially for informal employment, prevents any conscientious policy action. – BY S Irudaya Rajan, Ashwin Kumar - Page 12
- Undermining the Lokpal
The Lokpal law was enacted to set up an independent institution to ensure proper investigation and prosecution into allegations of corruption against public servants. Five years after the law was passed, members were appointed in a manner that undermined public trust in the institution. – BY Anjali Bhardwaj, Amrita Johri – Page 14
- Challenges for Transgender-Inclusive Sanitation
The sanitation needs of the transgender community are addressed on the assumption that the community is a homogeneous group. However, designing transgender-inclusive sanitation requires a deeper examination of the role of caste, gender and age within the transgender community. – BY Durba Biswas – Page 19
- The Neglect of Ambedkar : Perennial Problem of Sociology in India
Indian sociologists and historians have retained a certain foundational bias and blindness regarding caste. The neglect of B R Ambedkar has been part of a strange refusal to acknowledge the political in caste. – BY Manash Firaq Bhattacharjee – Page 27
- Waste Management and Extended Producer Responsibility
The E-Waste (Management) Rules, 2016, Plastic Waste Management Rules, 2016 and Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016 are compared with the first ever rules based on extended producer responsibility in India : the Batteries (Management and Handling) Rules, 2001. – BY Yamini Gupta, Samraj Sahay – Page 34
- Theory Underlying Labour Market Flexibility
The theory underlying the labour market flexibility argument in India is identified and critically examined. A review of the empirical studies reveals that this argument is based on rigid real wages in turn explained by hiring and firing costs. – BY Anmitra Roychowdhury – Page 41
- Criminalisation of Bengali Muslims

The lives of Bengali Muslims in a slum in Jaipur changed overnight after the bomb blasts of 2008. Through narratives gathered on field, it is shown how the criminalization and dehumanization of a community was made possible. – BY Kanchan Gandhi – Page 49

➤ Accounting for the Diversity in Dairy Farming

In response to “Economics of Dairy Farming in India” (EPW, 14 October 2017), some of the issues implicit in the special article “Do Producers Gain from Selling Milk / An Economic Assessment of Dairy Farming in Contemporary India.” (EPW, 24 June 2017) are reiterated. – BY Nilabja Ghosh – Page 56

➤ Postscript

Vandana Dhoop on the need to introduce restorative justice in the Indian judicial system; Mythri P U on the Shinkari melam troupes in Kerala as symbols of Dalit assertion; Shruti Sonal on how the film Dirty Pretty Things poses a counter-narrative to the “European Dream;” and Last Lines by Ponnappa. – Page 60

spaces? - Page 8
- Political Culture's Impact on Strategic Culture
The influence of Hindutva on India's strategic culture during the Modi era has been traced. A strategic doctrine of compellence is combustible and retraction of Hindutva from polity is a prerequisite for stability. – BY Ali Ahmed - Page 10
- Multipurpose Cyclone Shelters and Caste Discrimination Dalits seeking shelter from Cyclone Fani faced humiliation and discrimination. While they were prevented from seeking protection during earlier natural disasters too, this time, young Dalits have been vocal about the injustice. – BY Sudhir Pattnaik – Page 13
- Continual Diminishing of the Aravalli Hills
The failure of the Harayana and Rajasthan governments to rein in the miners in the Aravalli range has resulted in severe degradation of the hills, causing many of them to vanish. – BY Shashikant Yadav, Anjali Sehwat – Page 15
- Women in the Law : Analysing Recent Developments
It is important to reflect on how recent significant judgments shape the discourse around women's place as equal citizens and what they may mean for future legal battles. – BY Kritika Vohra – Page 18
- Role of Trust and Power in Tax Compliance
The interplay of power and trust in tax compliance in India is analysed by using the slippery slope framework. Voluntary compliance is highest in a high trust, high power scenario. – BY Sudhanshu Kumar – Page 27
- Electoral Bonds : The Illusion of Transparency Electoral bonds give an unfair advantage to the party in power at the centre undermine the Election commission's oversight role and deprive the voters of their right to determine if the ruling party is extending undue favours to its donors. – BY Kamal Kant
