"Vachan Prerna Divas"

VIVA College Library organise Theme-Based Book Exhibition, commemorating "Vachan Prerna Divas" in memory of Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, is scheduled from October 15th to 18th, 2022, between 10:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. This exhibition showcases a diverse array of books, aligning with Dr. Kalam's ideals of knowledge and inspiration. The event serves as a tribute to his legacy, highlighting his passion for reading and learning.

Visitors, including students, staff, and faculty, have the unique opportunity to explore a wide range of themes, from science and technology to literature and philosophy. The exhibition not only fosters a culture of reading but also pays homage to the remarkable life and contributions of Dr. Kalam. Attendees have expressed appreciation for the event's thoughtful curation and the chance to delve into a wealth of knowledge.

In conclusion, the Theme-Based Book Exhibition held during "Vachan Prerna Divas" serves as a fitting tribute to Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam, fostering a love for learning and providing a platform for intellectual engagement.

- India's Contract Framing Act
The Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, 2020 is an important legislative landmark in the context of Indian agricultural policy. This paper critically examines the various provisions contained in the act to assess its potential in mitigating the key concerns in adopting the practice of contract farming in India. – BY Sthanu R. Nair, Reddy Sai Shiva Jayanth & Deva Prasad M.– Page 42
- Impact of Lockdown on Employment and Earnings
The Periodic Labour force Survey is an important official source of data on the labour force. In this paper, we make use if the data on activity statuses according to the daily, weekly and the principal usual status approaches and the earnings data from PLFS 2019-

2020 to study the impact of the lockdown on employment and earnings. – BY P. C. Mohanan, Alope Kar - Page 50

➤ Politics of Cultural Misrecognitions in West Bengal

This paper explores the mechanisms of the Trinamool Congress's percolation among the ethnic and religious minorities through "cultural misrecognition." Through an ethnographic work on the promotion of cultural expressions and recent ethnic conflicts, it is argued that West Bengal is observing a rapid raise of primordial identity-based political practices. – BY Suman Nath – Page 58

➤ Estimating Poverty without Expenditure Data

34 This paper utilises the expenditure data between 2004-05, 2009-10, and 2011-12 to impute household expenditure into a survey of durable goods expenditure conducted in 2014-15. The analysis indicates that survey-to-survey imputation, when feasible, is a preferable alternative to the current method of adjusting survey-based poverty estimates to later years. – BY David Newhouse, Pallavi Vyas – Page 34

➤ Examining the Etymology of 'Deras' in Punjab

44 A product of religious pluralism in Punjab, the origin of the deras is closely intermeshed with the history of the Sikh panth itself. This paper explores the etymology of the term "dera" by looking at its historical context, contemporary understanding and the sociopolitical and economic factors that have led to a cardinal shift in its meaning. – BY Geetanjali Atri – Page 44

➤ Industrial Policy in Market-friendly Economies

The paper surveys the status of vaccine research and development and its manufacture in India and discusses the fact that the country has used industrial policy instruments rather sparingly in jump-starting R&D and manufacturing of vaccines for COVID-19. This is despite India's acknowledged innovation capability. – BY Sunil Mani – Page 51

➤ Public Expenditure Management and Fiscal Discipline

Analysing fiscal discipline and strategic prioritisation of public expenditure using secondary data from 1980-81 to 2018-19, and the operational efficiency of public expenditure using primary data about the construction of check dams, it is found that fiscal discipline in Odisha is unsustainable due to the lack of strategic prioritisation and operational inefficiency. – BY Sushanta Kumar Mahapatra, Purna Chandra Padhan & Pareswar Sahu – Page 59

This study attempts to extract the guiding principles and concludes with a detailed study of the redevelopment of BDD Chawls at Worli, Mumbai. – BY Shirish B Patel – Page 31

➤ Monetary Policy and the Role of Information Shock

Inflation-targeting central banks supplement their monetary policy announcements with communication in the form of speeches and publication of text documents. The present paper attempts to identify and examine the efficacy of an information shock in influencing the inflation expectations of households, interest rate expectations of agents, output and inflation. – BY Anuradha Patnaik – Page 38

➤ Corporate Irresponsibility and Smokescreen of the Corporate Veil

The accepted notion in business and economics, which has seeped deeply in popular imagination too, that corporations exist primarily for benefiting their shareholders and hence their "accountability" is restricted to their shareholders only, is critically examined. – BY Rahul Varman – Page 47

➤ Coordination Failure in Local Government Networks

Using a decentred approach, we examine the implementation network for the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act, 2005 in the panchayats of West Bengal. The study shows that the inability to address a hidden agenda often makes bureaucratic leadership ineffective, whereas control over public discourse makes political executives better suited to manage networks. – BY Joydeep Guha, Bhaskar Chakrabarti – Page 55

➤ Rising Inequalities in Income in India

In India, the prevailing inequitable socio-economic structure and the influence exerted by the socio-economically privileged sections on economic policymaking and implementation are responsible for the rise in income inequalities. The experience of the countries that pursued globalisation alongside policies to reduce inequalities shows that the rise in income inequalities is avoidable. – BY CH Hanumantha Rao – Page 29

➤ Soil Nutrition and Fertiliser Use

This paper explores the determinants of fertiliser application in Punjab through an analysis of both secondary data and a primary survey-based case study. An analysis of primary data indicates that the fertiliser policy favouring urea has encouraged its overuse, which is incongruent with the soil nutrient level, and this might be one of the possible contributing factors to the soil nutrient imbalance in the study location. – BY Partha Saha, Krishanu Karmakar – Page 37

➤ Dalit Hindus in Bangladesh

By using both qualitative and interpretative methods complemented by field visits, this paper attempts to trace Dalit Hindus' movement from forced migration into ascribed untouchability. - Labour Agency and Global Production Networks
Recognising an increasing interface of the domestic labour-informal as well as organised-with the global production networks, this article engages with two specific research concerns. One is the relevance of traditional trade unions and the other is the role of the new, even as both labour standards and rights confront the challenges of capital favouring new labour legislations. – BY Keshah Das – Page 32
- The Cyclical Burden of Wages and Time Poverty
With a surge in student and white-collar population, Pune has attracted migrant labourers to meet the demand of domestic work. This paper attempts to understand the lives of part-time female domestic workers in the Viman Nagar neighbourhood. It explores the current market conditions of domestic work by examining the wage trends and perceived negotiating power among the respondents. – BY Aditi Natarajan, Malavika Rangarajan – Page 39
- A Green Model of Development

The central proposition of this paper is that the Kerala economy must grow on a path that leverages the strengths of its ecosystem, both natural and social, in a way that engenders growth that is widely inclusive and inherently sustainable. The central concern must be whether and how far the various economic activities find a harmonious alignment with the differentia specifica of Kerala's unique ecological wealth and social circumstances. – BY Mihir Shah – Page 47

➤ Actionable and Comprehensive Data Protection Legislation

55 A rapid shift towards the digital modes of service delivery has highlighted the urgency to protect the privacy and security of the citizens' data. Through a critical examination of India's fragmented state of data protection legislation, we advocate for centralising the citizens' rights in all policies and legislations. – BY Deepika Saluja, Krati Shrivastava, Anil Jacob & Oommen John – Page 55
